BLAINE VETOES NEW TAX BILL OF LEGISLATURE

Measure Adopted By Special Session Doesn't Meet Demands

Madison, March 28—Governor John J. Blaine today flatly refused to allow the measure substituted for his repeal of the income tax secrecy clause by the special session of the legislature to become law.

The governor vetoed the Skogmo tax amendment. This law, passed by both houses in special session, allowed state and local officers "in their official capacities" to have access to state income tax returns.

In a lengthy veto message delivered to the half dozen legislators who remained for the sine die adjournment taken at noon, the chief executive declared the bill substituted for his own "did not meet the demand that taxation shall be public and honest." The veto message charged that the legislature by this action was trying to hide the crimes of the wealthy profiteer and honor the criminal.

Blaine quoted the opinion given by Attorney General William J. Morgan, declaring the governor had the power of securing all information held by the tax commission under the present laws, and declared that under that interpretation the proposed law restricted the governor's present power. The tax commission has been placing an exactly opposite meaning on the law, refusing the grant to the governor or anyone else any information in regard to income tax returns.

Text of Message

The text of the governor's veto message follows:.

"To the honorable, the assembly:

"Bill No. 2A comes to me, without meeting the demand that taxation shall be public and honest

"As stated to you in my message, it has become definitely known that the state has been defrauded out of millions of dollars of income taxes. It seemed to me that it was vital to the state, to prevent future frauds and to expose and punish offenders against the law, that the secrecy clause should be repealed. Bills to that effect were introduced in both the senate and assembly. In neither house was a direct vote permitted on these bills. In each house substitute amendments were adopted and in this way a direct vote was evaded.

"The bill as passed does not meet the issue presented by my message asking for the repeal of the secrecy clause of the income tax law in any respect. It in no way relieves the situation which faces the state, nor does it aid the state in securing honest income tax returns. It does not in any way assist in punishing those who make dishonest returns. The crimes against the state that have been committed in secret under the secrecy clause of the income tax act remain secret. The taxing officers are still compelled by law to shield the crooked tax-dodger and profiteer.

"Protection for Cheats"

"The commission holds the evidence of the crime under seal, under lock and key, sacred to the tax-dodging criminals. The legislature refuses to open the doors; they insist on protection for the cheats and frauds.

"Crime is conceived in secrecy, under cover of darkness. So with the income tax frauds. They need secrecy and darkness for cover. This they have in the secrecy clause, and the legislature persists in hiding the crime and the criminals.

"When some hungry man steals a loaf of bread, he is bombarded by pitiless publicity, and the felon's cell awaits him. When the wealthy profiteer cheats the state of thousands of dollars, the legislature hides his crime and honors the criminal.

"I cannot stultify my office or still my conscience to sign what I most sincerely believe to be a bill calculated and designed to deceive the public. The people of this state are entitled to retain the secrecy clause of the income tax act, if they so wish: if they shall so vote, understandingly, we must accept their decision. But I cannot become a party to a scene—as I believe it to be—designed to befuddle and befog the voter. Let the issue stand out naked: give the people a chance to gaze upon the crimes whereby the honest taxpayers have been cheated out of millions of dollars to swell the coffers of the dishonest, and then let them say, if they so will, that they take their stand by the side of the dishonest to aid them in further exploiting the honest.

"The roll call on the substitute bill demonstrates that I am sustained by many members of the legislature, who believe with me in full publicity of public affairs and in a square deal for all. From the broad standpoint of public policy—that taxation is a public matter and not a private transaction, and that there should be no secrecy in public affairs, this bill cannot be approved.

Accepts Morgan View

"Furthermore, the attorney general, on March 23, 1922, rendered an opinion relating to the duties of the tax commission to Senator Skogmo, in which he said:

"'At the conference and consultations between the commission and the governor, there are no secrets which may not be divulged by him or them relative to the subject of taxation, and they must furnish such information as he may require. If he asks for it all, nothing may be withheld. All returns, reports, records, correspondence, and files in their possession or under their control, as well as knowledge or information not in writing must be furnished if requested by the state executive. He may not be put off with generalizations and deductions based upon returns of incomes. He is entitled to the returns, or certified copies.'

"This is contrary to the opinion and ruling of the tax commission. In the past, and upon such ruling of the tax commission I suggested in my message that the income tax returns could not be divulged to the governor. After a thorough consideration of the attorney general's opinion, I am convinced that it is correct, and that it is the duty of the tax commission to comply therewith. This gives partial relief from the intolerable conditions heretofore existing.

Power Restricted

"In the light of that opinion, instead of broadening the power of the governor, that he may enforce the law the bill restricts and limits his power It does more than that: it threatens the executive, as it does the tax officials, with imprisonment, unless they keep the information and the income returns secret and under lock and key. This is a further and important reason why the bill should not become a law.

"For the reasons stated, I return the bill without my approval

"Respectfully submitted,

"JOHN J. BLAINE, Governor."

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Skinner Case May Not Come Up Until Next Federal Court Term

Fayette Skinner, railway mail clerk of Marshfield and formerly of Plover, who pleaded guilty at Madison Saturday to a charge of stealing money from registered letters and who was to have been sentenced Monday, was not brought to federal court that day because John Niles, post office inspector who arrested him, was unable to be present. The case may be deferred until the next term of federal court.

SEVERAL NEW HOMES ON PRAIRIE STREET

Property Owners There Undertake Improvements to Their Dwellings

Prairie street is the scene of much building activity this spring. Several property owners there have undertaken substantial improvements to their dwellings and are also erecting new residences.

Among property owners making improvements is August L. Peickard, who began work Monday morning which will result in doubling the housing capacity of his lots at 215 Prairie. Robert Grubba was in charge of a large force of men, which detached the upright portion of Mr. Peickard's dwelling from the wing and moved it onto the north lot, where it will e set over a full basement and thoroughly remodeled. When these repairs and changes are completed the house will be offered for rent or sale.

Even more elaborate improvements are planned for that portion of the house remaining on the original site. The structure will be raised one or more feet and stone or cement walls constructed, the roof hoisted for the purpose of adding second floor rooms and the entire building given a general overhauling. J. E. Moyer has the carpenter contract and will finish the job as quickly as possible.

Diagonally across from the Peickard home at No. 256 Prairie, Mrs. John Garsamki will also have two houses where one stood before. The frame structure occupied by herself and family has just been moved several feet to the south and will be set over a cement block foundation while on the site it formerly occupied will be erected a stucco cement structure to occupy ground space 24 by 26 feet, the new part to contain three rooms and bath, while an addition to the rear will be used as a kitchen and bedroom. J. J. Borski has the contract for both of Mrs. Garsamki's houses.

MACHINE TURNS TURTLE, BURNS COUPLE ESCAPE

Paper Mill Road Scene of Bad Accident On Monday Night

Pinned underneath a touring car which turned turtle on the paper mill road late Monday night and then caught fire, Miss Lela M Williams of the town of Plover, a student at the Normal, and William R. Ruff, Jr., of this city managed to extricate themselves and escaped without serious injuries Neither was burned.

A few minutes after the couple left the scene of the accident, while running to a house to call the fire company, the gasoline tank on the car exploded, sending up flames and smoke many feet into the air. The machine was a total wreck long before the firemen arrived.

The accident is attributed to a broken wheel which caused Ruff, who was driving, to lose control of the automobile as he was motoring toward Stevens Point. This occurred at a point a short distance below the city limits a quarter of a mile from the River Pines turn.

The machine, a Hupmobile touring car of 1921 model, started to leave the concrete highway nearly 50 feet from where it finally went into the ditch. Mr. Ruff attempted to protect Miss Williams when he realized that he could not hold his car in the road, but it crashed down a slight depression and turned completely over. The car fired at once and the couple were endangered by the flames for a few moments. Ruff managed to force open a door and then pulled his companion out.

The young man at first attempted to extinguish the flames with handfulls of snow which he threw on the blazing machine but when this accomplished nothing he and Miss Williams started for a house to send in a fire alarm. They were only a short distance away when the gasoline in the tank ignited and exploded.

Five or ten minutes elapsed before a home was found which had a telephone. The alarm was sent in from the residence of Fred Haase more than a quarter of a mile from where the car tipped over and fired. Firemen from the North side engine house quickly responded with the fire truck but when they arrived nothing remained of the machine except the blazing shell. It was found Tuesday that the intense heat from the flames had melted the glass in the windshield. All upholstering and tires were destroyed, nothing remaining but the metal frame-work.

After the machine had turned over it was seen that two wheels on one side were broken off. One wheel snapped off as Ruff was driving along the road and the other is believed to have broken as the car went over. The car is valued at $1,000 or more and insurance was carried on it. A new cord tire had been installed as a spare the day before.

Mr. Ruff and Miss Williams had attempted to motor to the farm home of the girl's parents, Mr and Mrs Daniel Williams in the town of Plover, on Monday evening. They were forced to give up the trip because of impassable roads and were returning to Stevens Point via the paper mill road when the accident occurred. Neither suffered injuries except a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

Miss Williams is a student in the Rural department at the Normal and rooms at the George Reading home at 1003 Normal avenue

The committee has selected a series of high class entertainments and all who have enjoyed the numbers in previous years can be assured that the numbers for the coming year will equal to if not excel any that have been here. The results of the last season's course were very satisfactory both as to entertainment and financially. One of the coming numbers is the Smith-Holmes company, which is on the Stevens Point Normal program.

Bits of News

Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Leuenberger were Pleasant Valley callers on Wednesday. We are very glad that Mr. Leuenberger's health is better.

Chas. Fletcher, who has been critically ill for four weeks, is gaining slowly. Mr. Fletcher has had a long illness, several complications making his recovery slow.

Several others who have been ill in the Valley are much better.

The Pleasant Valley school was closed for two days last week because of the almost impassable roads. However, school has been in session this week, though it may be closed again when the snow melts again.

Roads in this neighborhood have been almost impassable as they have everywhere, but the telephone lines have been in service practically all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bennett and children spent Wednesday at Mrs Andrew Berry's home.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Edw. O'Keefe, March 16, an 11-pound son. There are now three sons in the family. Mrs. O'Keefe's mother, Mrs Minnie Bennett of Stevens Point, assisted in caring for the new comer.

Mrs Clair Eckles and little son, Forest, are spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O Webster. Mrs Webster is in Stevens Point to be with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Stienke, who is in St Michael's hospital, recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

COUNTY FIRE LOSS GREATEST IN STATE DURING PAST YEAR

Damage Caused in Portage Was $8,000 According to Figures of the Conservation Commission

Madison, March 27.—Forest fires were not as deadly in 1921 as in the preceding season, according to figures compiled by C. L. Harrington, division of forestry and parks of the conservation commission.

During 1921, 137 fires were reported as having burned over 38,044 acres. Estimates of lass were made in but 51 per cent of the fires. These estimates show that $4,736 damage was done to buildings and other property, while timber land, marsh hay land and young timber was damaged to the extent of $31,677, a total of $36,413.

In 1920 a total of 280 fires occurred, which burned over 404,059 acres, with a property loss of $225,692.

Localities visited by fire were not nearly as hard hit in 1921. Towns paid bills of $5,752.17 for fire fighting, and 1,037 men were called into service as fire fighters.—In the preceding season the towns paid $14,546 and 5,291 men were called out for service.

Portage county suffered the greatest loss of any county in the state, according to Mr. Harrington's figures. Oneida county had the largest number of fires, 14. Wood was second with 12 and Portage third with 11. The loss incurred in Portage county was $8,600. Wood county had the next highest loss, $5,815 and Lincoln third with $4,500. The fire cost to towns in Portake county was $2,618 60, far above the next highest figure, $535, incurred by Vilas county. The number of acres burned in Portage county was 6,652. Wood county's acreage is highest, 7,120.

Land-clearing operations caused 29 of the fires, the origin of which has been traced Campers and hunters come next in the list with 13 known fires to their account, and railroads are third with 8. The cause of 75 of the fires is unknown.

In 1921 for upkeep of buildings on state lands and roads, the state spent $16,036 03, against $20,456 37 in 1920 For fire protection and patrol on lands other than state lands, the state in 1921 spent $12 818 23, and the federal government $3,532 87, as compared to $8,748 67 by the state in 1920 and $2,813 67 by the federal government.

ONE MAN STILL MISSING AFTER BIRON TRAGEDY

Wisconsin River Fails To Give Up The Corpse of Mill Workman

(From Tuesday's Daily)

The Wisconsin river still claims the corpse of John Shymanski, one of the two men who lost their lives in the Biron paper mill catastrophe on Sunday when a head gate broke, admitting a torrent of water which caught them without warning. All efforts to recover the body, which is believed to have been carried far down stream by the surging water, have so far failed to meet with success.

Fred Getzlaff, the other man who lost his life, was a half brother of William and Henry Getzlaff of the town of Grant, Portage county. Other relatives are his widow and three children, two sisters, Mrs. Julius Kruger and Mrs. Charles Klug both of Wisconsin Rapids, and a half-sister, Mrs. John Ostruski of Wisconsin Rapids.

The funeral will be held from the home at 759 Ninth Street South at the Rapids at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, followed by services at the First Moravian church at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. C. A. Mellicke. Interment will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

Entangled in Wires

It is believed that Getzlaff met almost immediate death. He was working in the grinder room and was said to have been sweeping up when the water broke through the head gate. In the place he was working he had easy access to safety but for some unaccountable reason he became entangled in some wires. It is thought that he was then battered to death against the wall of the building by the rushing waters. Fellow workmen on the floor above discovered his body dangling in the waters and by the aid of hooks pulled it from the entanglements, but he was then dead. The wires carried no electric current.

Twenty Men at Work

At 11:15 o'clock Sunday morning, the time of the tragedy, the construction crew, consisting of about 20 men, was engaged in making ready for the installation of a new set of grinders. Below the head gate in one flume excavation had been made for the installation. Leading from the flume was a round opening six feet in diameter which led to the grinding room. It was perfectly dry in the flume, the head gate holding back the water. Below the floor in the grinder room in a line with the flume was an opening which had been created by a coffer dam built to keep the water out. There was a pump in this opening. At the time of the accident it was thought that there were no men in the flume as all had been sent out on different missions in connection with the work.

Swept Down Stream

Foreman Harry Mindak, Alex McGrath, Alex Pelot, Ed. Atwood, Ben Lucinski and Ed. Behrens, all members of the construction crew, were below the floor near the pump where they had been summoned by Shymanski because the pump had ceased to work. They were arranging to repair the pump and Shymanski was bending over it when the torrent broke through the gate and swept them out into the river. The coffer dam just below collapsed with the first rush of water. All were carried down stream with the current with the exception of Shymanski, who is believed to have been pinned in the building.

William Fink, one of the workmen who was in a tunnel below a floor, at first tried to use a manhole as an avenue of escape but it was too small to crawl through. He then ducked under the water and came out through another opening in the tunnel, making his way to safety along with Frank Jinsky, Robert Shelvin and Nick Wishman, who climbed to some pipes near the ceiling of the brinder room and made their way to a stairway leading to the floor above

The Four-Power Treaty and its Vital Reservation

Ratification of the four-power treaty is a great step forward. It puts the relations of America with Japan on a more friendly footing. It does away with the Anglo-Japanese alliance, constituting notice to Japan that England does not stand with her in a possible controversy with the United States. It makes it safe to reduce our navy. It binds the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France in an agreement to respect each other's territories in the Pacific. So long as this treaty lasts, and its preliminary period is 10 years, there will be no danger of a Japanese attack on the Philippines.

Adoption of the Brandegee reservation was of the highest importance. Without it, we do not think we should have favored ratification of the treaty except on the understanding that the matter contained in this reservation was implied in the original treaty. The Brandegee reservation provides that "the United States understands that under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of the treaty, there is no commitment to armed force, no alliance, no obligation to join in any defense." That is clear-cut statement of American policy. We bind ourselves absolutely to respect the territories of Japan, France and Great Britain in the Pacific, as they do ours, but we do not bind ourselves to compel Japan to respect the territories of France, or Great Britain to respect the territories of Japan. We will not fight in the Pacific at all if we can avoid it, and positively, this agreement says, we will not fight there for rights of nations other than ourselves.

Thus we pledge ourselves to peace, obtain a pledge of peace and at the same time do not place ourselves in a position where later on we may be obliged to choose between safety and violation of our solemn promise.

The Homecoming in Fair Week

Suggestion was made at a meeting of directors of the fair association at a meeting the other night that the 1922 homecoming be held in fair week. We like that idea. The thought of the home coming committee probably was to get a crowd into town twice in the fall, and feeling that the people would come anyhow for the fair, it was decided they might be brought in again for the homecoming. On the other hand is the argument that the fair alone will provide a great deal of entertainment for homecomers, that it will bring into the city almost every farmer in the county, almost all of whom will be known to some returning son of the couty, and that the homecoming will increase the crowd at the fair and help make it a bigger success.

Question of hotel accommodations of course, enters in. In late September or early October the new hotel will almost surely be ready; at fair time it may not be. Yet it is hoped it may be ready even then, and all in all, it seems to us that the reasons why the homecoming should be held in fair week are stronger than the reasons for putting it off until later.

Justice Burr W. Jones

Burr W. Jones, who holds a place on the state supreme court by appointment, is a candidate for election to the same place. He has been indorsed by both Senators La Follette and Lenroot, Governor Blaine, former Governors McGovern and Hipp, Attorney General Morgan and a host of other leading men of the state. He would not get such indorsements were he not doing his work acceptably.

The rule in Wisconsin has been to ignore politics. Justice [illegible] proves to be a Democrat, [illegible] the court, we believe, [illegible] a supreme court justice [illegible] performance has [illegible] under the Wisconsin [illegible] election. That is the [illegible] Jones.

Presumably almost every [illegible] Stevens Point and Portage [illegible] would favor the election of this good lawyer and just judge. The danger [illegible] is that, because the contest appears all one-sided, many who would [illegible] not vote for him. It is [illegible] look the little judicial ballot [illegible] do that. If you are satisfied that Justice Jones should remain on the bench [illegible] help to keep him there by voting for him. Public sentiment to be effective must express itself through the ballot box.

Prefers 15-Foot Road

Editor Journal: In reply to another Plover resident's questions published in the Journal, asking if an 18-foot road would not be more advisable across to the papermills, would say that while an 18-foot road would be a much better road, I do not believe it would require that width on the road mentioned to make a satisfactory road, as the cinders would make a fine shoulder at a very little expense. I personally would not favor an 18-foot width of concrete here as I believe it would be an unnecessary and uncalled for expense. This is my personal opinion and I give it as such, and I do not wish to convey the idea that I would not favor personally what the majority of the voters wants, whether it be 18-feet, 15-feet or no road at all.

Last fall at the meeting of the county board I attempted to have the concrete road continued for about two miles south of Plover on highway No. 10 but lost out on account of the county having to raise in this years tax roll a sufficient amount of money to pay off the bonds for work already done. However I was promised by a number of influential members that they would give their support this fall to an appropriation to have this two miles continued with concrete next spring.

The question which was asked regarding the village returning to the town—would say as for me I have no fight with them and aside from the feeling that may exist between the town and village people, I cannot see why they would be a financial burden upon the town, but instead in some ways would be a help to us in as much that an assessed valuation of about $100,000 is confined in a very small area. I hope this gives the information desired.

RACES ON TUESDAY AT FAIR THIS YEAR

Events for Farmers are Also Included in Revised Speed Program

An extra day of races at the Stevens Point fair in August was announced today, as well as farmers' running races for three days of the fair. The enlarged speed program is expected to creat a larger interest and draw bigger crowds on Tuesday as well as the other days.

In the past only three days have been devoted to races and none has been put on in which farmers could enter horses. This is an old fair feature which is being revived this year and which proved to be a big event years ago.

A liberal purse is being raised among merchants for the farmers' running races, which will be held on three days of the fair.

TWO SATURDAYS HERE EACH WEEK

Condition Brought About by Market Square Featured in Slogan

"Stevens Point—Known as the city with two Saturdays each week."

This is the Chamber of Commerce slogan for the week and refers to the business stimulus given local retailers as a result of the market square here. Thursday is always a market day in Stevens Point, bringing many rural residents to the city. Then when Saturday comes around, another regular market day, business men are given a second day of country trade.

The success of the market square activities here has attracted interest in many cities and a movement is under way to establish such institutions elsewhere. Chippewa Falls is the nearest city to adopt the plan. Rochester, Minn., will soon have a municipal market. M. E. Bruce will go there soon to address a farmers' meeting on the subject.

BILL EXTENDS TIME FOR FILING RETURNS

If Governor Signs it Tax Payers Will Have Until March 15 Next Year

[illegible]

ROBBED MAILS TO PAY UP ON HOME HE BOUGHT

Frank Statement Of Guilt Made by Fayette Skinner At Madison

Inability to keep up payments on his home at Marshfield and to provide properly for his wife and four small children led Fayette Skinner, railway mail clerk, to steal money from registered letters, according to his own story told to Judge E. Z. Luse and United States District Attorney Dougherty in federal court at Madison Saturday afternoon. Skinner formerly lived at Plover, this county.

The indictment charges that the thefts covered a period of nine months. More than $300 had been stolen, according to the district attorney.

Is Local Graduate

Skinner, a graduate of the Stevens Point High school in 1908, informed the court that he bought his home on a land contract. He had to pay $50 a month besides interest he said. Skinner stated that up to July 1 last he was receiving $1,850 a year, but since that time his salary had been $160 a month.

"I have no money my self," he said. "I have lost my job and have been in jail here for three weeks."

Sentence Deferred

Both Judge Luse and Dougherty were impressed with the frank statement made by Skinner. The judge promised Skinner that when he imposes sentence.

Sentence was deferred until today because the court wanted to hear the story of John Niles, postoffice inspector, who made the arrest.

MARATHON MURDER CASE IS DISMISSED

But Defendant is Rearrested on Charge of Perjury at Inquest

When the case of the state vs. Walter Kerstein of Marathon was called in municipal court at Wausau on Thursday for preliminary examination of the defendant, District Attorney Geo. J. Leicht moved for a dismissal of the complaint and the discharge of the accused.

The district attorney stated that at the time the complaint was filed and the warrant issued there was good reason to believe that Kerstein was implicated in the murder of Charles Wagner in the town of Marathon on November 1, 1921, but that investigations made since changed the status of the case and he felt that in justice both to the state and the defendant, the case should be dismissed. The court complied with the recommendation.

Later in the day Kerstein was arrested on a warrant charging perjury and when arraigned his preliminary examination was set for April 5, he furnishing bail in the sum of $2,000. The complaint contains two counts, each alleging that at the inquest at Marathon, held to determine how Wagner came to his death, Kerstein swore to falsehoods.

MISS GIBBS BURIED

Tribute Paid to Deceased at Funeral Here Sunday

A remarkable tribute of respect was paid Miss Madge Grace Gibbs of Stockton when her funeral was held in this city Sunday afternoon. The funeral cortege left the Gibbs home shortly after the noon hour, traveling with sleighs and cutters until reaching the city limits, where transfer was made to motor vehicles, more than twenty cars following the remains to the Baptist church and later to Forest cemetery.

Services at the church were conducted by Rev. James Blake, who extended words of consolation to the stricken family and relatives and paid deserved tribute to the deceased. Hymns were sung by a chorus of Normal school students, many of them former classmates of Miss Gibbs. One Withdrawal For Alderman Only Change on Spring Ballots

The complete slate for the municipal election to be held in Stevens Point on Tuesday, April 4, was drawn up by City Clerk W. L. Bronson.

Independent Progressive Leader Predicts Defeat of Blaine Slate at Primaries

Milwaukee, March 25—Declaring that the administration forces face almost certain defeat at the fall primary as the result of the calling of the special session of the legislature, Senator George G. "It is now apparent," said Senator Skogmo, "that the governor failed to make a case in his efforts to show that any emergency existed that would warrant calling an extra session of the legislature.

Even among the administration men there was frequent expression of disappointment that the session had been called and the general feeling was that the real purpose [illegible] had been too thinly veiled.

"All indications point to the session being a political boomerang and even the administration's friends see defeat for the packed slate in the fall primary.

OFFICERS FAIL TO GET "MOON" IN SALOON RAID

One Guilty Plea Entered In Three Liquor Law Arraignments

A raid on a local saloon Friday afternoon and three arraignments of alleged liquor law violators in county court before Judge W. F. Owen Saturday marked a campaign against moonshiners, conducted by local authorities.

The officers from the sheriff's and police departments raided a saloon in the northeast corner of the public square but found no intoxicating liquor. The work of the policemen drew a crowd of over 200 people within a few minutes, people flocking from all parts of the square to watch their activities when it became known that a raid was on.

Pleads Not Guilty

Frank Blaszkiewicz, proprietor of a saloon on Main street, arraigned in court as the result of finding two bottles of alleged "moonshine" by officers on the person of Alex Firkus when they raided the saloon Thursday afternoon, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having intoxicating liquor under his possession and control on the premises.

The case was thereupon adjourned to March 31 in the same court. He was released on bond of $500.

Firkus, charged with having intoxicating liquor in his possession and control, pleaded guilty and was assessed a fine of $100 and costs of $11.25 by Judge Owen.

Ramczyk Gives Bail

MRS. W. L. ARNOTT 90 YEARS OF AGE

Felicitations Extended to Local Woman by Many Friends Saturday

To reach the ninetieth milestone in one's career with mental faculties unimpaired and possessing good physical health is the happy lot of Mrs. W. L. Arnott, one of Portage county's pioneer residents.

Mrs. Arnott's 90th birthday anniversary was observed last Saturday, March 25, when nearly 50 friends visited the family home on Reserve street to offer felicitations. The afternoon's visitors included nearly the entire membership of Circle No. 4 of the Presbyterian church, which surprised Mrs. Arnott by arriving en masse with quantities of eatables which were served later in the day.

Besides the countless good wishes which are deeply appreciated by the recipient, Mrs. Arnott received many substantial gifts, including flowers and confections. In compliance with telegraph instructions from members of the Fuller-Eddy-Gano families at Lewiston, Idaho, a local greenhouse firm delivered to the birthday celebrant a flowering plant and there was also received by express a shipment of hyacinths from one of Mrs. Arnott's nieces, now living in Arkansas. The cut flowers reached here in remarkably good condition.

For a long period of years the Arnott family resided in the town of Stockton, a mile or two southeast of Arnott station, later moving to Stevens Point and several years ago erected a new home on Reserve street, near the Normal school.

NEW HOTEL CONTRACT FOR THE FIFTH FLOOR

Building Will Be Completed Throughout at Added Cost of $20,000

The board of directors of the hotel company met with John Immel, the contractor, on Thursday and entered into a new contract which provides for the completion of the interior of the fifth story of the hotel. The additional cost will be approximately $20,000.

The interior work on the fifth floor was not included in the original contract with Mr. Immel as it was not planned at that time to extend the work further than completing the exterior of the final story. Decision to complete the building in its entirety was reached a number of weeks ago when John M. Teeling, the lessee, requested that this action be taken, asserting that in his opinion the patronage which will be given the hotel will be so heavy that the additional rooms will be needed.

CREW CAUGHT IN PIT WHEN GATE BREAKS

Surging Torrent of Water Rushes Through Building On Sunday

(Special to the Journal)

Wisconsin Rapids, March 27—Fred Getzlaff, 59, is dead and John Shymanski, 37, is missing as the result of a disaster at the Biron divisional mill of the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company at 11:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

A head gate in the paper mill gave way at that hour and torrents of water rushed through the mill, claiming the lives of these two men and imperiling the lives of 11 others who escaped. All were members of a construction crew engaged in making way for the installation of two new grinders.

Trapped in Pit

When the head gate broke a 19 foot head of water surged through the mill, trapping the men without warning beneath the building proper where they were at work excavating and removing bed rock. They were stationed directly below the grinder room.

Getzlaff lost his life when he became entangled in wire and ropes and was crushed and battered against the walls of the basement. Shymanski was working under the floor, attempting to repair pumps to keep the inclosure inside the mill and the coffer dam dry. His body is believed to have been pinned underneath the pumps in the building and afterward swept down the Wisconsin river. The body has not yet been recovered.

The water is continuing to rush through the mill and cannot be stopped until it is diverted into another flume and the broken head gate replaced by a new one. This work is under way and is expected to be completed by Tuesday.

Foreman Saves Two

Foreman Harry Mindak and six others were washed down the Wisconsin river when the gate and coffer dam gave way. They at first clung to timbers and then swam the icy waters to safety. Mindak's presence of mind saved two men when he assisted them to a place of safety on a scow which he succeeded in reaching.

Mill Closed Today

The entire mill remained closed today on account of the water which flooded the motors. President George W. Mead of the Consolidated company ordered all mill work to suspend until it was certain that the body of Shymanski was not locked in the debris underneath the building. The construction of a temporary gate will probably be financed by the county. Meanwhile many men are dragging the Wisconsin river in attempts to locate the corpse of the missing victim.

The total damage was estimated today at not more than $5,000, due chiefly to suspension of operations and damage to a stock of paper which was stored in the basement of the mill.

Both Leave Families

Shymanski was a married man and the father of four small children, the youngest five weeks. The children and the widow survive. Getzlaff was also married and leaves a widow and three grown children.

No cause for the collapse of the head gate was learned as it has held the water back under similar conditions at different times in the past several years.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN EXPIRES IN THE WEST

Wife of James C. Ellertsen, at One Time a Miller Here, Dies in Seattle

Word has just been received here of the death at Seattle, Wash., of Mrs. Marian Ellertsen, wife of James C. Ellertsen, former residents of this city. She had been a sufferer with rheumatism and general debility for several years. Her death occurred at the family home at Seattle on March 10 and funeral services were held on March 15. The body was cremated.

Mr and Mrs. Ellertsen formerly lived at 621 Ellis street, this city, but moved from Stevens Point in 1902 going to Waupaca, where they resided a year or two before going west. Mr Ellertsen was formerly a miller at the Jackson Milling company's plant here and afterward, in company with E. H. Rossier built the Spring ville mill in the town of Plover, which he operated with Mr. Rossier for a year. He disposed of his interests in the business shortly before he and his wife removed to Waupaca.

Mrs Ellertsen was in her maiden name Marian O'N[illegible] born at Grand Rapids, Wis., prior to her marriage, which took place in that city. She had been employed as a milliner for years before coming to Stevens Point. [illegible] was a member of the P[illegible] [illegible]

SHARE TO TOWN OF INCOME TAXES $65,000 IN 1922

Chairman Parks Says Road Would Cost $18,000 and He's For It

Editor Journal: In answer to the article which appeared in last Saturday's issue of the Daily Journal and which I have received, in regard to the improvement of the road from the L. Bourn corner on the Plover-Stevens Point highway across to the lower mill to connect up with the present so-called paper mill concrete road, I wish to say that I have given the matter careful consideration and will give my opinion and answer the questions put to me the best I can with the information I have at hand.

I do not know whether this article was written for political purposes or not as I am not in a position to know what has been going on in town politics since I left, but regardless of that it is not in accordance with my policy to side step for point on an issue where a public improvement is at stake, especially when I believe such an improvement is for the best interests of the town. I believe the voters of the town have a right to the information asked, and while it is impossible to give the exact figures at this time, or before the 28th of March, which is board of audit day, they can be relied upon as very close. Answers to the questions follow:

The town's share of income taxes paid us this last year by the mills and sanitorium was approximately $65,000. We used $24,000 of this amount to pay the state, county, and town taxes and to keep from levying this amount against the taxable property of the town. This includes $3,000 for improvements on town roads not included in the federal system and is available for this work this summer. The amount now in the treasury is approximately $4,000 and the correct [illegible] of having any money [illegible] the town treasury after March 25.

The distance across, or length of road, in question is, according to the Portage county map a little less than a mile. To build this 15 feet in width would require the laying of about 8,000 yards of concrete surface at about $2.10 per yard, or approximately $16,[illegible]. The grading and [illegible] of shoulders could be done by home labor under the supervision of the town board and town highway commissioner at about two-thirds the cost of contract price. It could be done for approximately $2,000.

This covers all questions I believe except the personal question put to me, "Would you favor this improvement?" and I will answer that in this way: The writer must have known or should have known that I have never opposed a public improvement in the town when requested by the voters, but instead have encouraged them, when I believed such an improvement was to the town's interest, and I believe this one is, especially taking time into consideration and being of a permanent type of construction and the people it would benefit. This is my personal opinion and I give it as such without fear or favor in answer to the question put to me. I believe if this comes to a vote, the Plover people have had enough experience in the last few years to enable them to vote intelligently upon a question of this kind and to decide themselves whether or not the improvement would be for their best interest. As town chairman I am a servant of the people and as such, I feel it a part of my duty to give any information to the voters that I can regarding this or any other contemplated improvement, or question that may arise, in a fair and impartial manner. I hope this clears up the questions involved and sets my position in the matter clear.

DR. METCALF DIES IN WESTERN CITY

Native of City and Brother of Mrs. John K. Hanson Is Summoned

John K. Hanson of Arnott received a telegram Thursday announcing the death of his brother-in-law, Dr. Arthur A. Metcalf of Yakima, Wash. He passed away at 3:30 o'clock that afternoon, following an illness which began early last fall.

Dr. Metcalf was taken with a cold early in November, from which he partially recovered, but a relapse set in at Thanksgiving time and he had been very poorly ever since.

Mrs. Hanson was called to Yakima four weeks ago and is now at her brother's home. Other friends who have greatly aided the Metcalf family in their affliction include Mr. and Mrs. George DeClarke, former neighbors at Arnott who went west last year.

Dr. Metcalf was a native of Stevens Point, born on the present site of the Stieler farm 69 years ago. He attended the local schools and while still a young boy took up the study of telegraphy. His first public position was that of agent for the Green Bay and Western railroad at Plover, from where he was transferred to Marshland Junction, a station near Winona. He later studied medicine at a Chicago college and had been practicing this profession for a period of 45 years.

He was located successively at Crystal Falls and Houghton, Michigan, Green Bay and Dunbar, Wis., then returning to Crystal Falls, where he followed his calling until his removal to the west a couple of years ago. While enroute to Yakima he and Mrs. Metcalf visited for several days at the Hanson home and with friends in this city.

Dr. Metcalf married Miss Emma Van Patton, member of a pioneer family at Weyauwega. They are the parents of two sons, Arthur Jr., and Edward, both residents of Yakima. Arthur travels for a wholesale drug house and Edward is in the banking business.

Walter Scanlan Booked

"Irish Eyes" is the title of the new comedy in which Walter Scanlan will be seen at the Majestic April 3 on his second annual tour. It is written especially for him by the American author, Edward E. Rose and vividly depicts life in the Emerald Isle before the days of the torch and armored cars. It is mainly a love romance, and does not touch upon any controversial subject. Mr. Scanlan, who is firmly established in the hearts of play-goers everywhere, will sing several new songs, "Mavourneen," "My Love," "An Irish Song Will Live as Life and Love Shall Last," "I Was a Pilgrim in Loveland," and "Kathleen." The stage settings are said to be very elaborate and sumptuous.

THE LAWS OF THE SEVERAL STATES require insurance companies to make and file annual statements showing their financial condition at the close of every calendar year. Necessarily these statements are intricate and technical and require experts to understand them fully. That is why few policyholders try to; they are willing to let Insurance Departments do it for them. After all, what a policyholder in a life insurance company most wants to know is: Has my company been fair and square in its dealings with me and will it continue to be so with my beneficiaries?

The annual statement of The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company shows how its policyholders feel about the matter, because of all the insurance issued by it in 1921, more than 45% was issued upon applications of men already insured in the Northwestern. That is pretty good evidence that policyholders consider the Company "fair and square", and when a company forms the habit it will continue to be "fair and square" after its policies mature.

A policy "matures" when it becomes payable to the insured or to the beneficiary or beneficiaries named therein. It is of the utmost importance that a company always have sufficient funds with which to pay claims promptly when called upon to do so. The law requires all life insurance companies constantly to maintain a sinking fund for that purpose and prescribes the method of computing the fund, which is called the "reserve". On January 1, 1922 the law required the Northwestern to have "reserve" amounting to over 456 million dollars, and on that day it had assets to the amount of 507 million dollars. If these assets were good, then the reserve was safe.

Just exactly how good these assets are may be judged from the fact that 224 million dollars of them are in first lien, real estate mortgages (155 million in farm and 69 million in city loans) on property valued at 724 million; 180 million in United States and other high-grade bonds, and 76 million in advances made to policyholders upon the security of the cash value of their own policies.

The statement shows that the Northwestern had a "reserve for contingencies" over all liabilities amounting to some 24 million dollars.

The Northwestern did not break any records in writing new policies in 1921, but it progressed and prospered. It had the biggest and best financial year in its history, permitting it to continue its established "dividend scale" throughout 1922. This means that the cost of insurance to its policyholders will be less in 1922 than it was in 1921.

If policyholders have noticed, every time they pay their premiums, they get a refund. We have all become accustomed to refer to this refund as a "dividend". It is not a dividend, however, in the commercial sense. Here is how it arises:

Premiums in a mutual company are computed with an allowance for safety and when the cost of the insurance for the year is ascertained, any excess is returned to policyholders. The net cost of insurance, therefore, depends upon this refund of the unused part of the premium.

Policyholders are interested in "expenses", for the smaller the expenses the larger the "dividends". One item of expense should interest policyholders especially, and that is "taxes". For the privilege of doing business for their policyholders, life insurance companies are subject to heavy burdens of taxation, both state and national. Taxes are charged as an expense and if they did not exist, the net cost of insurance would be just that much lower.

Despite this heavy item, The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company has kept up, and we believe it will keep up, its refunds to policyholders; and this it can do because of careful selection of risks, expert and advantageous investment of funds and rigid economy of management.

Just a word as to "management": The Company is required annually to appoint an Examining Committee, consisting of five men who are not interested in the Company in any way except as policyholders, to make a complete examination of it.

The Committee of 1921 was headed by Hon. Antone Kuckuk, of Shawano, Wisconsin, as Chairman, and, among other things, it reported as follows: "From an examination, we are satisfied that the Company is in sound financial condition and conservatively managed, and we are convinced that the policyholders are amply justified in continuing to impose their trust in the persons now in office".

The management will be pleased to mail, upon request, a detailed synopsis of the Annual Statement.

SCRIBNER VOTE BASED ON VIEW OF TAX BOARD

Farmer Assemblyman of This County Explains His Stand

Going down to Madison disposed to vote for whatever legislation to improve the income tax laws the governor asked, William Scribner, assemblyman from Portage county, decided, after hearing the arguments, to vote for the substitute bill, he said in a statement to the Journal today just before returning to Madison where the legislature is again due to meet on Tuseday.

Selfish Inspection

"We met in joint session and arguments for and against opening up the complete income tax reports to public inspection were presented," he said. "Former Tax Commissioner Nils P. Haugen was the first expert called by the administration. He proved to be one of the strongest advocates of leaving the income tax records in about the condition the law leaves them at present. He said that he did not see either any advantage or disadvantage in the collection of taxes through the opening of the records to public inspection. He could see a grave danger in opening up the records to every Tom, Dick and Harry who wanted to pore over the reports of any individual or corporation, often for purposes quite apart from the collection of taxes or the public good.

Complaints Guesswork

"And here is a striking fact which all fair men must consider: All the tax commissioners, including Judge Rosa, an appointee of Governor Blaine, said the commission frequently gets complaints from persons that others are not paying their full income tax, and that in not a single case, where a corporation or individual was investigated after these complaints, was the income tax increased. Such complaints, they said, were based on mere guess and when investigated they had invariably been found to be groundless. Seventy-five per cent of the corrections in the income taxes, resulting in the increased taxes which the governor mentioned in his message, are made through the office by correspondence and without an examination of the books of the company or person reporting. In other words most of the discrepancies, errors and even frauds are made plain to the tax commission by examination of the original reports, and a couple of letters usually straightens it out. In 25 per cent of the cases there is an actual examination of the books of the person or corporation reporting.

What Board Asks

"The tax commission members thought the best way to get results would be to give them a little more appropriation, and then they could check up promptly all returns which indicate there has been mistake or fraud.

"The big argument of the administration was that with the income tax records laid open to everybody, this publicity alone would put fear into the people and make them report correctly, and come across without investigation. If that were true, there would be little need of the tax commission. But not one of the tax commissioners thought they could get any more revenue without expert accountants to take up the presumably fraudulent returns.

Market Board

"The governor in his message emphasized the need of getting away from the espionage, or spy system. He does not believe in commissions spying into people's business. But that is just what his market commission is doing—going around spying. And about all it did in 1921 was to make it impossible for the farmers to sell their potatoes, and about all it has done in 1922 is to raise the price of gasoline one cent a gallon to consumers in every community where there is a Standard Oil service station. If I were going to abolish anything, the place I would start in would be the market commission."

SETTLEMENT MADE WITH SOO COMPANY

Suit for $50,000 Ends When Staska Agrees to Accept Smaller Sum

Settlement has been effected between the Soo line and Matt Staska of this city, who brought suit against the company for $50,000 for the loss of his right leg and foot below the knee and for other injuries suffered while employed as a coach cleaner in the local yards. It is understood that the figures agreed to were between $3,500 and $4,500.

Staska was struck by the paper mill train on November 3, 1920. Since then several attempts were made by the company to arrive at an amicable adjustment of his claim but were unsuccessful. Staska finally placed his claim in the hands of Minneapolis attorneys, who commenced action in Pine county, Minnesota, alleging damaged to the extent of $50,000.

Second Action Started

The case came up for trial on January 19 and after the plaintiff had presented his testimony the judge dismissed the action on its merits. Another action was brought in Mille Lac county, Minnesota, the county seat of the county being Milaca, located some 90 miles northwest of Minneapolis on the line of the Great Northern railroad. The trial of this case was set for this week.

The Soo line endeavored to come to some satisfactory settlement of the matter but in view of the amount claimed by Staska nothing could be accomplished. However, after the dismissal of the case in Pine county, negotiations were again opened with Staska, which resulted in his going to Minneapolis last Friday and accepting an offer made by John E. Palmer, general attorney for the Soo, thus closing the entire case.

VALUE OF SOY BEAN HAY IS POINTED OUT

Sawyer County Farmer Finds a Substitute for Timothy and Clover

Madison, March 21.—The value of soy bean hay at the present time when farmers throughout upper Wisconsin are facing a severe shortage of timothy and clover, is demonstrated in the case of Jens Vrenholt of Seeley, Sawyer county. Mr. Vrenholt has met with marked success with soy bean hay in feeding his stock.

"I wasn't very enthusiastic about the feed last fall when we were cutting it," said Mr Vrenholt. "On account of the frequent rains the hay molded a bit, but finally it was put away with the other hay. The cows at first didn't seem to care much for it, but after they once acquired a taste for it they ate the coarsest stem and all with the greatest appreciation. The finest thing about it is that every time a cow takes a mouthful of this soy bean hay, she gets as much milk making material as though she had taken a small mouthful of bran or had eaten three mouthfuls of common upland hay like the neighbors' cows were getting. This soy bean hay can be raised on new breaking, planted up to June 20, an average year, and will produce a crop yielding from one to three tons per acre, depending upon fertility of soil and season.

"Of course we had a little difficulty this last season in handling the crop, but we more than paid for our trouble by the constant upkeep of our milk flow due to having a good substitute when our clover killed out. If we had to buy what little crop our cows are taking us by having hay at $20 to $25 per ton, which we can raise at for half that amount, we would not stand ahead to pay for that silo, light outfit, the power wash machine, and running water in our house. We can afford to hire two men to help clear this spring a few acres, and plant this soy bean for hay in the saving of hay. Soy bean hay seems to be just the stuff for our Sawyer county cows, when clover fails.

"I certainly will plant more soy beans this coming spring for hay if our clover has killed out, but will plant some with our corn for silage no matter how good the clover is. We never had better silage and the cows never did better on it."

MORE CONTRACTS LET

Seneca Corners and Milladore Highway Jobs are Awarded

Contracts for 9.7 miles of concrete paving north and west of Seneca Corners in Wood county and for the Milladore-Blenker road were let last week.

The Seneca Corners job, which includes the linking of Seneca with the concrete toward Arpin on Road 13 and three miles west of Seneca on the Wisconsin Rapids-Pittsville road went to the Wausau Iron Works at a total of $172,049 for the whole job, exclusive of the cement, which is to be furnished by the county. Figured on a basis of yardage, this would amount to just a shade over $2 per yard. Part of this is federal aid highway and is 18 feet wide.

The Blenker-Milladore road was awarded to the Larson Construction company of Eau Claire, at a price equivalent to $1.98 per yard.

We can reduce Your Land Clearing Costs

THIS year we can save you over one-fourth on your land clearing costs. Every dollar you spend in our store for dynamite buys you $1.35 worth.

We offer this material reduction in the cost of explosives because we sell Du Pont Dumorite, the new farm dynamite which gives you ⅓ more work per dollar. Dumorite, the new Du Pont Farm Dynamite, has the strength of 40% dynamite and the slow heaving effect of "20%," making it a better farm explosive, stick for stick, than either of these dynamites.

You won't get a "dynamite headache" from using Dumorite and it will not freeze.

Dumorite is also the right dynamite to use for blasting boulders and tree holes, and for ditching in dry soil, where the "propagated" method (using Du Pont Straight Dynamite) cannot be employed.

Stop in and let us tell you more about this remarkable Du Pont Explosive which is going to mean a big reduction in your blasting costs.
